

We have moved!

After more than two years of activity, Peekaboo Animation is moving forward in a continued growing path and, from 1st April on, we moved to a new location in Barcelona city, concretely in the historical and creative quarter of Vila de Gràcia.

Peekaboo Animation is growing and hiring new staff in order to meet the production needs of its projects. After the incorporation of Itziar Etxarri as Production Manager in mid 2017, Peekaboo has completed its core team with two creative positions: Daniel González as Head Writer and Christian Villacañas as Head Illustrator. The company is planning to add two more positions as assistants for production and distribution issues.

Currently, Peekaboo is producing “I Elvis Riboldi” in collaboration with Wuji House, Insomne Estudi (Spain) and Watch Next Media (France), a kids’ comedy show commissioned by Televisió de Catalunya, Canal+ France, and presold to Cartoon Network, Disney Channel and Super internationally. Producers expect to deliver the series by end of 2019. The company is also in development of the animation series “Mironins”, in coproduction with Cornelius Films, Wuji House (Spain) and Walking The Dog (Belgium).

In addition to the animation projects, Peekaboo has also expanded the business by entering in the children’s books market in collaboration with EMSE Publishing. Peekaboo is coordinating the illustrations of the books’ collection “My Little Heroes”, published by La Vanguardia and Salvat Editores, and now sold internationally. Peekaboo is also working on an animated adaptation of the books for new platforms, with the aim of delivering it for an international market. That is the first collaboration in the publishing world, but there are already plans to launch new projects in this field.

Thus, 2018 means a turning point for the company, which expects to consolidate its three different business lines: production, distribution, consulting services.
